Certificate III in Aged Care Work

CHC30102

The Certificate III is the entry point for those wishing to work within the aged care sector which includes community nursing, home help, information services and day care centres as well as hostels, nursing homes and acute care.

Students of this course will learn about communication and providing care and support to the aged in residential and community settings. It also equips students with the professional ethics appropriate to the provision of aged care and provides the theoretical framework for workers to work within the industry.

CMC Training at Work has a strong history spanning over 10 years in delivering flexible and industry-focused programs to a variety of sectors. CMC Training at Work's courses focus on the needs of the workplace, so students graduate with current industry knowledge and standard practices.
